This groundbreaking book is the first of its kind to provide comprehensive and compassionate support for donor conceived people and their families.

Written by a team of experts who are themselves donor conceived people or have been involved in the donor conception process, the book covers a wide range of topics, including:

- The emotional and psychological experiences of donor conceived people and their families
- The legal and ethical issues surrounding donor conception
- The practical aspects of donor conception, such as finding a donor and going through the process of insemination or surrogacy

- The resources and support available to donor conceived people and their families

The book is a must-read for anyone who is considering donor conception or who is already a donor conceived person or part of a donor conceived family.
